EBA final draft ITS on amended Pillar 3 disclosures

22 June 2026

The European Banking Authority (EBA) has published its final report with draft implementing technical standards (ITS) amending the Pillar 3 disclosure framework to finalise the implementation of the disclosure requirements introduced under the revised Capital Requirements Regulation (CRR3). This follows the May 2025 consultation. The ITS revise disclosures on environmental, social and governance (ESG)-related risks and introduce new requirements on equity exposures and aggregate exposures to shadow banking entities. The intention is to improve clarity, consistency and usability within the EU's broader simplification agenda. The final draft ITS are closely linked to the ESG supervisory reporting framework set out in the related consultation paper and are advised to be read together.

In relation to ESG disclosures, and in line with the CRR3 mandate, the ITS extend the scope of application beyond large listed institutions to include large non-listed institutions, other institutions, small and non-complex institutions (SNCIs) and large subsidiaries. The framework introduces a more proportionate and streamlined approach, with differentiated disclosure requirements based on institutions' size and complexity. In particular, SNCIs are required to disclose only essential information (including on physical and transition risks and exposures to fossil fuel sectors), while the requirements for larger institutions are clarified and streamlined rather than expanded.

The ITS also take into account existing supervisory guidance and seek to enhance consistency across frameworks, including through alignment of terminology and instructions which can be found in the press-release.

The draft ITS will be submitted to the European Commission for adoption. They are expected to apply from a reference date of 31 December 2026, with a later application date of 31 December 2027 for SNCIs. The instructions to the templates will not be published in the Official Journal, but will be published on the EBA website, and disclosures should be provided in accordance with those instructions. They will be available in all languages and shall remain directly applicable in all Member States as part of the ITS.
